

Human's Uses for Trees

Every part of a tree is useful: the leaves, roots, wood, and bark!

Trees provide food, clothing, shelter, and shade. They are also sources of energy, medication, detergents, cosmetics, and a myriad of other products.

This section contains a number of man's uses for trees, but there are so many others! Maybe you can help us out. Think of other ways that we use trees and describe them for us. Illustrate your description with a drawing or photo that you have found on other sites.
